Jose-

Really good job on the presentation! It went well here in the room and people were engaged. There are well over 100 here.

I will let you know if others tap me to get more information and out them in touch with you as appropriate.

Take care

Hi again and thanks Bob for your help.

I'm adding Annette (lead manager on the study for EPA) and Monica (ORD Communications on the study) for their awareness. Currently what's on our website is pasted below. At this juncture I don't have any additional sense as to the timeline, so if asked I'll say that I currently don't have an estimate, unless Annette and Monica suggest differently.

It'll be an early morning for me!

Cheers,

Jose

Timeline

The draft report on the Federal Research Action Plan on Recycled Tire Crumb Used on Playing Fields and Playgrounds was sent for external peer-review in May 2018. EPA and CDC continue to address peer review comments. The aim is to release the draft report for public comment in the Fall of 2018. The report will be finalized after the public comments are reviewed.

Daisy just told me the release date changed from mid 2018 to "undetermined." And that I could say that. But I won't say anything unless it's ok with you.
